TOP 17 SHOPS IN MALAYSIA WHERE YOU CAN SATISFY YOUR CAKE CRAVINGS!

Rihan Kumar | Last Updated: April 20, 2026

One lazy afternoon, I was mindlessly scrolling through Instagram when a friend's post stopped me in my tracks—a glossy slice of strawberry shortcake perched on a fork, glowing in the right cafe lighting.

What began as innocent screen time quickly turned into a full-blown mission to find the most drool-worthy cakes in Malaysia. From old-school bakeries with love to modern patisseries crafting edible art, I soon realised this was a sweet hunt worth taking.

Whether you dream of airy sponge, decadent chocolate, or local twists with pandan and gula Melaka, these cake shops have something to satisfy your sweet tooth! Read on and remember the most unforgettable cake stops that are just one slice away.

Where craftsmanship meets indulgence.

Our chocolate mousse cake is layered with fragrant roasted hazelnuts, the finest dark chocolate and a glossy chocolate mirror glaze and lastly crowned with a beautifully tempered 70% chocolate disc for the perfect finishing.

Foret Blanc Patisserie is an online cake store based in Malaysia that specializes in French-inspired artisan birthday cakes with delivery services across KL and Selangor. The brand positions itself as a premium dessert provider focused on celebrations and gifting experiences.

They place strong emphasis on custom-made cake design for a variety of occasions including birthdays, weddings, corporate events, and special celebrations. This makes them suitable for customers looking for tailored cakes rather than off-the-shelf bakery options.

Their roots are in French-style baking, particularly entremet (French mousse cakes), macarons, and chocolates. This foundation reflects a pâtisserie approach that prioritizes technique, texture, and presentation.

Beyond French pastries, they also offer a wider range of baked goods including cheesecakes, butter cakes, and fluffy fresh cream sponge cakes. This gives customers more flexibility depending on taste and occasion.

A notable part of their offering is their designer cakes and pastries, which are showcased through their portfolio work online and on Instagram. These products highlight their focus on artisan edible art and visually detailed cake designs.

They also extend their service beyond cakes by offering gift-ready options such as pastry gift boxes, balloons, and flowers. This supports their positioning as a one-stop solution for celebration needs.

Overall, Foret Blanc Patisserie is built around the idea of providing a complete and convenient celebration cake experience under one brand. The name “Foret Blanc,” meaning “white forest” in French, reinforces their French-inspired identity and aesthetic direction.

Pro tip:

Order earlier than the same-day cutoff if the cake matters for an important event. Even though they offer same-day delivery, placing your order in the morning gives you better selection and reduces risk of peak-time delays or limited slots.

If you're looking to level up your cake game, Lacher Patisserie is where you start. Known for French-style whole cakes, this online-only patisserie delivers straight to your door across Kuala Lumpur and Selangor.

It's a solid go-to for birthdays, anniversaries, or honestly, any time you feel like a proper treat. Their Hazelnut Praline is smooth, nutty, and rich without being too sweet. But the real standout for us was the Yuzu tart: sharp, silky, and totally addictive.

Fun fact: these guys aren't just any bakery—they're the winner of the Asian Pastry Cup 2016, which says a lot about their attention to detail and quality.

Pro tip:

If you're ordering for special occasions, try their Gateau Fromage or Raspberry Valrhona Jivara Mousse. Both come beautifully presented and can handle the spotlight in your celebration photos.

Cake Tella isn't just your average cake shop—they specialise in alcoholic cakes that are as bold as they are fun. Based around a pickup model with delivery options in the Klang Valley, they focus more on what really matters: flavour, punch, and a good time.

If you're into dessert with a kick, this shop is definitely for you. Their black forest cake takes the lead, featuring berries soaked in strawberry booze, chocolate mousse, sponge layers, and a nutty base.

It's indulgent without being overwhelming, and the packaging includes a mini party game that makes cake-cutting more interactive. You'll also want to check out their gin truffle cubes or alcoholic cake bites if you're after easy sharing or a portable option.

Pro tip:

If you're short on time but still want something show-stopping, the pre-order system is quick and reliable, and the cakes stay in great shape even after delivery. Go for the cake bites sampler if unsure which flavour hits best.

Junandus is one of those cake brands you can rely on when you're in a rush or planning ahead. They specialise in online cake delivery, covering Kuala Lumpur, Selangor, Penang, and Johor Bahru with same-day options that show up on time.

The best part? Their cakes aren't just convenient—they're genuinely good! You've got a wide range to choose from, but their mermaid cake and triple chocolate crepe cake stand out for texture, design, and flavour.

The crepe cake, in particular, hits a great balance of sweetness and richness without being over the top. Plus, they've nailed their packaging and service—small things like holding an umbrella for you on a rainy pickup day make a difference.

Pro tip:

If you're trying them for the first time, check out their seasonal offerings—the Christmas log cake got lots of love for both looks and taste. It's a safe bet for festive gatherings or last-minute gifts.

Delectable by Su feels like a cosy nook in the city where you can slow down and enjoy your cake with a side of greenery. Tucked inside the Glasshouse at Seputeh, the space isn't just about dessert—it's also great for intimate catch-ups or small private events.

The ambience is quiet and lush, which makes your time here feel a bit more special. Their signature cakes, like the Mini Jelly Cat cake, stand out for both presentation and taste—light vanilla aromas, a creamy macaron topping, and thoughtful packaging.

You'll also find slices like the classic chocolate cake that come in generous portions and satisfy that rich, cocoa-heavy craving. And if you're there to linger, the tea menu, like their Earl Grey lavender, is worth your time.

Pro tip:

If you're ordering delivery, ask about transport options—they'll help you choose the best way to get your cake to you in one piece.

Keto Cake is a solid option if you're keeping an eye on carbs but still want a proper slice of cake. Everything on their menu is lab-tested, low-carb, sugarless, and gluten-free—and most importantly, the taste holds up.

Whether you're on a keto plan or just want to skip the sugar crash, this place helps you have your cake and eat it too. The Almond Tiramisu and Valrhona Chocolate Mousse cakes are popular picks, both surprisingly rich without feeling heavy.

Their Berry Berries Cheesecake is also a go-to for birthday celebrations, especially for those with dietary restrictions. Delivery is smooth, and you get a nutritional breakdown so you know exactly what you're eating too.

Pro tip:

If you're buying for someone on a strict diet (like diabetic or keto), mention it in your order—they'll guide you to the best picks based on dietary goals.

If you're someone who appreciates a proper slice of cake made from scratch, Jaslyn Cakes is the one you need! Everything here is baked fresh daily, and while the prices are a little on the higher side, you can taste the quality in each bite.

Their salted caramel chocolate ganache and pistachio cake are strong standouts—rich, flavourful, and not overly sweet. The vibe inside is calm and minimalist, though space is tight, especially at the Bangsar outlet.

It works better for takeaway unless you manage to grab a seat during off-peak hours. Still, whether it's their dense carrot cake or gooey brownies, the menu stays consistent with simple but well-done favourites.

Pro tip:

Aim to visit their Damansara Heights outlet. This spot is less cramped and has more comfortable seating for a proper cake-and-coffee session.

The Buttercake Factory is here to provide you with a designer cake that doesn't just look good but also tastes heavenly! They specialise in same-day delivery for custom cakes, which is a lifesaver when you need something last-minute order that still looks like you planned it weeks ahead.

Their Belgian chocolate and mint oreo cakes are highly recommended. You'll love how they balance style and flavour, especially if you're used to Western-style cakes that are moist and generously frosted.

The buttercream here leans sweet, but that's exactly what fans of classic celebration cakes are looking for. Their attention to detail in design makes them a go-to for themed parties, baby showers, and just when you feel like treating yourself.

Pro tip:

Place your order in the more if you're planning to customise so you can have more design options on the same day. They're fast, but popular designs can sell out early.

Lilian's Cake House is where you go when you want your cake experience to feel like a gentle escape. What started as an online shop is now a retro-inspired cafe serving light, fluffy chiffon cakes and tea lattes that pair just right.

If you enjoy desserts that aren't overloaded with sugar, their pandan mango cake and strawberry shortcake strike that perfect balance. The cafe leans towards a calm, almost nostalgic feel, with soft music and warm service.

Cakes here tend to please all ages, especially if you're after something mellow and delicate. A lot of people also come here for the tea—the Genmaicha latte gets repeat mentions for a reason.

Pro tip:

Try coming in the late morning or mid-afternoon when the crowd thins out. It's the best time to get a seat and enjoy your cake without the rush, especially if you're visiting with friends or bringing older family members.

Miss Shortcake is one of those rare spots that knows how to do both everyday treats and celebration-worthy cakes without missing a beat. Whether popping in for their lemon cupcake or looking for a fancier custom cake, you'll find something thoughtfully made.

The signature Belgian chocolate cake is a top pick if you're after something rich and dense, and the three-milk cake has gained a loyal following for its balanced sweetness. You can order online for delivery or gifting.

Moreover, their festive-themed cupcakes are genuinely fun without going over the top. The shop itself, tucked above Village Grocer, keeps things simple and tidy, which is great when you just want to pick up and go.

Pro tip:

If you're planning to grab their cupcakes around major holidays, pre-order online. They sell out fast, especially the limited-edition designs that make perfect party additions or thoughtful gifts.

Bisou Bake Shop has carved out its name in Malaysia's cake scene with dependable classics and a warm, personal vibe. You'll probably hear a lot about their red velvet and rainbow cake, both are crowd favourites, but the pandan gula melaka deserves your attention too.

If you like something old-school with a twist, their afternoon tea set in Bangsar Village is worth the sit-down, especially with the freshly baked scones. What makes this spot more than just another cake shop is the story behind the tea room with vintage cups.

The team is friendly and helpful, whether you're picking up a birthday cake or just stopping by for a cupcake. Vegan options are also available and surprisingly moist, not something you find every day.

Pro tip:

For a more personal treat, try the butter icing chocolate cake. It's a top pick for those who prefer icing that's not too sweet and has that smooth, melt-in-your-mouth texture.

The Cake Hunter is a solid choice when you want something custom-made that also tastes good, and not just something pretty for photos. Whether you're after a birthday cake, a petite creation, or something rich like their Opera chocolate cake with Ferrero Rocher toppings, they make it easy to get what you want.

You'll appreciate how responsive they are, especially through WhatsApp, which makes ordering less of a chore. Design-wise, they nail the brief and add thoughtful touches that feel more personal.

What sets them apart is their attention to both presentation and flavour—a combo that's not always easy to find. Furthermore, they're a good go-to if you're planning a celebration and want a cake that gets remembered.

Pro tip:

If you're in for something seasonal, check their durian cake when it's available. It's one of the rare options that hits the right balance between bold flavour and smooth texture.

Cake Hub Official is the kind of place you don't expect to stumble upon—but when you do, you're glad you did! Known for their plant-based and eggless options, this store delivers more than just looks.

Their cakes are fresh, moist, and balanced in flavour, whether you go for their yam crepe, tiramisu, or the rich dark chocolate cheesecake. Moreover, you'll find the atmosphere here chill and low-key, ideal for small catch-ups or a quiet afternoon with cake and coffee.

Their vegan-friendly menu is what makes them stand out, especially the plant-based cakes that don't taste like they're missing anything. Lastly, their pricing is solid for what you're getting, and the service is always friendly and patient.

Pro tip:

Don't skip their hot chocolate with chocolate sprinkles. It pairs well with any of their crepe cakes and is a low-key crowd favourite.

A sheer masterclass of Malaysian ingenuity. Nothing beats a bowl of cendol for its wonderful blend of flavours and what better way to pay homage to this delightful dessert than having it in a slice of cake.

It took us over 20 attempts to finally break the code and it's all worth it! We have our gula melaka in the form of our gula melaka sponge. We have our pandan in the form of cendol pieces and a pandan sponge. A bit of our own-made red bean paste for the hit of sweetness. And finally, that wonderful santan aroma in our coconut whipped cream.

If you're after something a bit different from your usual cake spot, Kuke Desserterie might be your next go-to. Their Puteri Jendol and pandan brulee bring local flavours into modern pastry form without overloading your sweetness.

The cakes are light in texture but hit just the right note when it comes to richness. What makes this store memorable is the intimate ambiance just right for an afternoon chat over cake and coffee.

The staff know their menu well and won't hesitate to guide you toward something you'll enjoy. By the way, if you're a burnt cheesecake lover, take note that their version is creamy, smooth, and definitely worth your money.

Pro tip:

Planning to bring one of their unique cakes to a family gathering? Call ahead for whole cake orders—especially if you're eyeing a larger size, as they sell out faster than you'd expect!

The petite gateaux at Champignons Patisserie look almost too perfect to eat—until you dig in. Their Opera cake and soft centre cheesecake are favourites for good reason—both manage to be rich and delicate at the same time, without being too sweet.

You'll want to savour every bite, especially if you appreciate more refined flavours. This cosy cafe with limited seating, ideal if you're popping in for dessert with one or two friends.

The coffee pairs nicely with their cakes, and the vibe is calm and minimalist. Just don't expect to grab a sandwich midweek—they only serve their savouries from Friday to Sunday.

Pro tip:

Parking can be tricky, so aim for a weekday off-peak visit or go early on weekends to avoid the usual wait for a spot. It'll make your cake-and-coffee time a lot more relaxed.

The Mandarin Cake Shop is where you go when you want your dessert to feel a little extra special. Their eclairs are highly recommended—light choux pastry with rich filling that somehow doesn't leave you feeling too full.

If you're after something more indulgent, the Petit Antoine is a bestseller, blending hazelnut and chocolate in a way that's balanced and not overly sweet. The shop sits within a luxury hotel, and while the presentation is upscale, you'll find that the service is warm and helpful.

Also, they've recently revamped their cake offerings, and it's clear the new pastry chef knows what they're doing. It's a solid option if you're looking for consistently good quality without exploring a complicated menu.

Pro tip:

If you're planning to swing by, consider stopping in during breakfast hours. Their breads and coffee are just as enjoyable as their cakes, and the seating is quiet enough to unwind before the day kicks off.
